THE SITUATION.

The "Laughing Hyena" across the street, which the San Francisco Exchange has dignified by the name of the "cow-boys' obituary organ," having acknowledged its imbecility, has called to its aid one "Amicus" and our venerable friend, Judge Reilly, who adopts the old Donnybrook style of hitting a head wherever seen, and as a consequence, Clum, Spicer, Randall, Gray, Marshall Williams, the Earps, and several others come in for their share of withering excoriation. The playful cow-boy and the gentle stage-robber alone seem to have escaped this Donnybrook attack. By deduction we are led to believe that Marshall Williams, Wells-Fargo's agent at this place, has robbed all the stages; that Budd Philpott committed suicide, and that Clum, while seated inside the coach the other night, shot the off-leader in the neck, "Whistling Dick" in the leg, and then took to the brush for the purpose of creating sympathy and getting an Indian agency. We have given the subject much careful thought, but thus far have failed to see the connection between the night attack on the stage and the San Carlos Indians, unless it is solely in the interest of the Indians. The idea is this: The Indians own the country, and if the timid tenderfoot can be terrorized to such an extent that he will give the territory a wide berth, and the few people who are now here can be frightened away, it will redound greatly to the benefit of the much-abused Apache. He can then roam at will, and there will be no white man to molest or make him afraid. This is very good, from the Indian standpoint, but if Mr. Clum had any such idea, when he shot the poor horse in the neck and "Whis tling Dick" in the leg, he cannot be too severely condemned from the white man's standpoint. The Epi-TAPH's patrons and friends mostly belong to the white race, and the paper naturally sympathizes with them in their views; but notwithstanding this fact it would fain occasionally drop a tear for the Apache Indian, the bucolic cow-boy, the much-abused stare-robber, and all other persecuted people. Not many moons ago, when Sherift Shibell, a gailant Democrat, for whom a half-dozen San Simon cowboys voted 104 times, (very nearly re-electing him) was called upon to arrest a poor innocent stage-robber. he called around him several faithful followers, armed them with doublebarreled shot-guns, and slipping up behind the much-injured road-agent unawares, filled him full of buckshot. At that time the ignorant people were not educated up to the idea of extracting the fangs of the deadly rattlesnake or incarcerating robbers and murderers in the county jail until they had time to recuperate, and then to be turned loose by an obliging sheriff. No, the humanitarian influence of the Tombstone press had not yet been felt, and milk of all kinds-especially of human kindness -- was a scarce article. And, strange to say, Sheriff Shibell and his gallant comrades were lionized for having done what would now be severely condemned, namely, shooting a defenseless man in the back. But then Charley Shibell was a good Democrat, and to that favored class of our society much allowance must be made. Not a word must be said against any act committed by a Democrat, whether it be robbing a stage, shooting a man in the back or with his hands up, robbing the people by adding ten per cent to an already furdensome tax, neglecting to summons grand jurors who are disposed to think a democratic officeholder is not immaculate, stuffing ballot-boxes, or anything else he may do. And it is for this reason, we take it, that that stern old wheelhorse of democracy, James Reilly, has seen fit to throw the mantle of charity over the frailties of his partizans. It is merely a question of political capital, and a part of the plan for the "ins" to keep in. If public attention can be directed to some farcied grievance, the "gang" can continue to rob the people at pleasure under the cover of law, at the same time neglecting to obey the mandates of the courts and allowing criminals to go scot free. We have too much respect for Judge Reilly to believe that he is not honest in his opinions, but when he claims to be opposed to any organization for any public purpose, not purely philanthropic, he evidently forgets the of his nouse in his absence. But United States, be pronounced by Hon. Jas. G. Blaine, and that the President of the that may have been a philanthropic organization. Be that as it may, we can only find one way to solve the United States, heads of the several departdifficulties of the present situation, our best people-miners, merchants and mechanics-must unite, and form such a healthy public sentiment that it will not be safe for wrongdoers, whether they be office-holders, murderers or thieves, to follow out their natural instincts. If the country is ruined in the meantime, we can commence anew; but at least let it be said that a man will be protected in his life and property, which cannot be said with truth at present.

READERS of the EPITAPH will remember that some months ago we called the attention of the Mexican government to the necessity for the establishment of a consulate in Tombstone. It affords us pleasure to announce to the public that our suggestion was promptly acted upon by the Mexican congress when it met, and that a bill was introduced establishing such office here, which became a law on the seventh day of December, a copy of which reached this city Tuesday evening. This will end the troubles for Americans who desire to cross the line for business or pleasure. We expect to be able to announce the appointment of a consul at an early day.

THE EPITAPH received through the veracious telegraph Tuesday night two contradictory versions regarding the lost Jeannette. That account which reports the expedition as having come to grief is shown by our dispatches this morning to have been the correct one, and that benevolent Siberian governor who was so devoted to the interests of humanity and science, turns out to be a

First Ward Meeting.

A meeting was held last night at Ham Light's corral for the purpose of nominating a candidate for councilman from the First Ward, and eight delegates to the city convention of Saturday evening next. The meeting was not generally advertised, and consequently only about fifty people were present, being packed for the purpose which was accomplished. It in no measure represented the sentiments of the ward. I. O. Smith acted as chairman and A. H. Emanuel, secretary. Charles N. Thomas was nominated as councilman, receiving eight votes more than J. W. Young on the second ballot. Mr. Thomas has very little interest in the ward or in Tombstone affairs and cannot be elected. There will be little difficulty in electing Mr. Young should be consent to make the race. Mr. Young is a member of the firm of Armstrong & Young, and would fill the position with credit to himself and his constituents. The following gentlemen were elected delegates to the city convention: John R. Young, Jas. Kenny. Chas. Mason, Jas. Wood, J. H. Locklan, R S. Knight, Wm. Soule and Jerry Fitzpatrick.

A Tenant at Last.

For a year past our county jail has been unoccupied. But once a (special) grand jury was called and impaneled, but finished business in one day within the past year. Last week two men charged with robbery, an account of which we published were brought from the railroad, and plead ing guilty, were locked up. This is the first of a long list that is sure to follow before the iron horse crosses the Colorad river. In time the citizens and taxpayers expect to have help by way of taxes from the railroad, but at present and for on year to come, we will have a heavy expense without much assistance from any new source. Our county, that is now nearly out of debt, will find itself with a debt before anything is realized from taxes on the railroad. One point is in our favor, the A. & P. R. When we take into consider tion the great disadvantages its owner have had to contend against, and the facthat the main shaft is only down about 250 feet, this is a pretty good showing. Some of these days the Lone Star will sur-prise the natives. Hon. #### A Prospector's Chances. the N. Y. Daily Stock Report Could the scattered and broken threads which formed the warp and woof of many a prospector's history be gathered together and united, romances without number could be woven which would rival those framed by Wilkie Collins. Certain events in the history of two pioneers have recently come to our knowledge, which are worthy of mention. Three years ago Mr. M. Dunkin located at Leadville the mine which still bears his name. He was poor, but he wo ked faithfully and hard in hopes that he would strike mineral out his mo ev gave out, and he sold his interest for $2,300. The purchasers, after expending quite a large sum in sinking another shaft on the property, which failed to disclose mineral, returned to that in which Mr. Dunkin had buried his hopes, and in sinking seven feet farther struck pay ore. The mine was sold a year later for $375,0 0. An old-tuner in the west, who was among the earl, arrivals at Rosita, located the Pioneer, and sunk a shaft 124 feet deep. He subsequently located the Chieftain, adjoining the Leavenworth, and sold it for $5 on twenty years' timb. The sum is not yet due. Before selling, he offered to give it to Capt. Lambert, of the Pueblo Chieftain, from which paper the mine derived its name, but the captain declined the gift. The same prospector discovered the Humboldt, Pocahontas, Leviathan and Invincible mines, all of which he gave to a man to whom he was indebted in a paltry sum. The three first named have since yielded $700,000, and bid fair to produce twice that sum in the future, while the old timer is rich-prospec tively in the ownership of several
